

WHO BLACK GAY MAN I AM

The eighth annual Black Gay Men's Network Retreat, Black Gay Man: Who I Am, focuses on defining ourselves as individuals and in the context of our relationships and communities. We will examine areas such as sexuality, spirituality, relationships and finance. We will look at our roles in politics, the media and in promoting our collective health. It will be held March 31 to April 3, 2011 at the Meliá Caribe Tropical in Punta Cana, Dominican Republic.

The retreat will combine workshops and interactive, facilitated discussions, varying by session according to design. Each presenter is an expert in his field with a history of working with Black gay men. The retreat empowers brothers to take control of and enhance their lives in order to be their most effective and successful.

Black Gay Man: Who I Am is the place for progressive Black gay men to build bonds of friendship and expand and develop long-term social and professional networks.
